VARIANCE ADDENDUM

A separate attachment may be utilized to answer these questions.

To be considered complete, a site plan and construction plans must accompany this petition.

UNNECESSARY HARDSHIP

An applicant may not claim unnecessary hardship because of conditions which are self-imposed or created by a prior owner (for example, excavating a pond on a vacant lot and then arguing there is no room for the home and requesting setback variances). Courts have also determined that economic or financial hardships do not justify granting a variance. When determining whether an unnecessary hardship exists, the property as a whole is considered, rather than just a portion of the parcel (if an applicant prefers to build by the water but can't due to the water setback, but can build on the rear of the lot without a variance, the water setback shall be denied). The property owner bears the burden of proving unnecessary hardship.

For an area variance, unnecessary hardship exists when compliance would unreasonably prevent the owner from using the property for a permitted purpose (leaving the property owner without any use that is permitted on the property), or, would render conformity with such restrictions unnecessarily burdensome. The Board of Adjustment must consider the purpose of the zoning restriction, the zoning restriction's effect on the property, and the short term, long term and cumulative effects of a variance on the neighborhood, the community and on the public interests.

The unnecessary hardship is, and, is present because:

When the crawl space was dug, the water table was much higher than expected, this caused the dwelling elevation to increase to a level where the grade would be >15 deg. Per OSHA and riding mower manufacturer guidelines, mowing needs to be at 15 deg. or less to be safe. With no retaining wall, this would be a hardship. Additionally, if the wall along lot 9 were set back 10 ft from the lot line, there would only be 9 1/2 inches to walk around the chimney to the lakeside, and only 5 inches to get past the AC unit from the garage exit; an additional hardship with a 10 ft set back is lack of underground drainage for the roof downspouts. These were buried 4 ft deep at the lot line to avoid the runoff velocity onto lot 9 causing an eroded embankment. (Photos A & B). When the septic tank was dug, the water table was much higher than expected, this caused the tank to be above the planned depth and <4 ft from the lot line. In order to cover the tank with soil to keep it from freezing, a retaining wall on the south next to lot 11 was built 1 ft from the lot line.

UNIQUE PROPERTY LIMITATION

Unique physical limitations of the property such as steep slopes or wetlands that prevent an applicant from complying with the provisions of the ordinance can be considered for a grant of variance. (However, be advised that even if unique physical limitations exist, the variance still may not be granted.) Valid unique property limitations that are not generally shared by other properties can be considered but must prevent compliance with ordinance requirements.

The circumstances of the applicant (growing family, need for a larger garage, wanting a better view, etc.) are not factors in deciding variances. Nearby ordinance violations, prior variances or lack of objections from neighbors do not provide a basis for granting a variance.

Unique features of this property which prevent compliance with the terms of the ordinance include:

Lot 10 is narrow and the natural slope is westward to the lake. Also, the high water table causes the dwellings and services to be set higher than a level lot not on waterfront. Since the setback from the high water mark is 75 feet, houses along Oakwood Ln have a steep grade on the lake sides. This causes the grade next to neighboring lots to be difficult to manage runoff. On the north at lot 9 the grade is greater than 15 deg. and on the south at lot 11 the 3 ft offset to the septic tank does not allow for a sloping grade to sufficiently cover the tanks to avoid freezing.

NO HARM TO PUBLIC INTERESTS

A variance may not be granted which results in harm to public interests. In applying this test, the Board of Adjustment must consider the impacts of the proposal and the cumulative impacts of similar projects on the interests of the neighbor, the entire community and the general public. These interests are listed as objectives in the purpose statement of the ordinance and include, but are not limited to:

- * Protect public, safety and welfare
- * Preserve wetlands
- * Prevent water pollution
- * Protect fish and wildlife habitat
- * Promote a safe and efficient transportation system
- * Protect property values
- * Conserve soil, water and forest resources
- * Encourage the protection of groundwater & surface water
- * Preserve natural scenic beauty & rural character

A variance will not be contrary to the public interest because:

The neighbor on the north, lot 9, has the same lawn and access with no runoff onto the property. This is due to the retaining wall and the 4 ft buried downspouts from the house roof diverting water away from their property. The neighbor on the south, lot 11, expressed concern about the soil flowing onto his property when the septic tank was set. To satisfy this hardship, we determined that a retaining wall near the lot line would both resolve any runoff onto lot 11 and the tank freezing. Even with a 24" retaining wall, the primary grade height of lot 11 would still higher than the primary grade of lot 10. Adding retaining walls to avoid erosion onto our neighboring properties is in their best interest. Other properties on Oakwood are unaffected.

Addendum 1

We have owned Silver Springs Lake Lot 10 since 2014. Since that time, we have removed nuisance pine trees along the lot lines to improve the air quality, appearance, and maintenance of the immediate neighborhood. We enjoyed the house and performed updates as needed during the first 10 years. Then we contacted a builder to expand the existing house to add a bathroom and bedroom but found that there were other issues in the structure that made it inefficient to expand. So, in 2024 we drew up plans for a new structure that would accommodate a retiring couple with a big extended family.

San Filippo Construction tore down the old 1,000 sq ft house and built our current retirement home. One story on a sloping lot towards the lake westward. Since it is a lake lot, a basement was not going to happen, so a crawlspace was planned and built above the high-water mark. With the new house came a new septic and soil was tested and location chosen. Unfortunately, when it was time to drop in the tanks, the water table was much higher than anticipated, and thus the tanks rose up approximately 3-4 feet higher than originally planned as seen in the included photo where the tank is sitting in water. At that point, we knew the slope from the foundation to the lot line would be very steep and it was imperative that no soil wash over to neighboring Lot 11. This was substantiated when the owner phoned us on August 14, 2025 and asked what we were planning to do about the "contaminated dirt" that eroded onto his property. So on August 16, 2025 we shoveled the soil back away from his lot. This ensured there was no blocking of his sump pump that discharged onto the shared lot line. As you can see in one of the included photos, there was quite a bit of height to the soil we moved off the neighboring lot and we considered our options. If we try to slope from the south-facing porch to the lot line as originally planned, that would leave the septic holding tank exposed and we were concerned about frost in the winter. The same issue with the exposed tanks if a retaining wall were put the required 10ft from the lot line. We teamed with our builder, our landscaper, and our son who is an engineer and all came to the same consensus, that a retaining wall would be the simplest and most effective option. We asked the landscaper to put in the retaining wall as far away from the lot line as possible, but still able to keep the soil around the septic tanks so they didn't freeze and to control the erosion. We believed this additional expense was necessary to provide the benefit to the adjacent landowners of complete erosion control.

We were pressured to keep the "contaminated dirt" off Lot 11 so we moved quickly to have it put in and completed in Sept 2025. Luckily we did it quickly, because a storm came through on Sept 22, 2025 that dropped so much rain that it would have covered our neighbors sump pump discharge opening from the runoff erosion. You can see in another of the included photos that the water is sitting in our lot and did not run over into the neighbors. Additionally, on the north side, the steep slope would have left soil washed into Lot 9 which had just been sold. There was a healthy pine tree (the only one on our lot) that we did not want to sacrifice, so a curved block wall facing west was built around the tree (see photo). This ensured that the cement crawl space was adequately covered and no erosion would push soil onto Lot 9 or erode soil away from the foundation on Lot 10.

We additionally included buried downspouts on both sides of the house at the lot lines as shown in the diagram to channel any runoff from our roof away from our neighboring lots. These underground plastic lines run parallel to the neighboring houses and lots.

In summary, the unexpectedly high water table at the foundation build, and the mound system tank install, caused a quick change of plans from a sloping grade to the adjoining lots. The most effective alternative was the erosion-control retaining walls.

The filing of this variance is not timely, but we have been drawn away by many typical relocation issues. We listed our primary residence for sale that month and have been travelling back and forth to move stuff out. We also are working to get grass growing on our Silver Springs lot to keep the dust to a minimum. (But we are grateful for their patience and understanding.) Thanks to Zach at Planning and Zoning for pointing out this delinquency in requesting this variance. We appreciate your consideration and will certainly pay any fine that is deemed appropriate.

Sincerely,

Bob & Margie Bruha
