Department Staff report to the Marquette County Board of Adjustment

Prepared by: Jean Potter – Zoning Administrator

Applicant: Tara Sommersberger

Hearing date: October 29, 2026

PARCEL INFORMATION

Property location: Parcel 022-01776-0000. W4265 Fox Road

Legal Description: Parcel R3 being part of Govt Lot 2; Sec. 24 T15N R9E, NW-SE, Town of Packwaukee, Marquette Co., WI.

Zoning District: Residential (R-1) and Shoreland Recreational-Residential (REC-RES)

BACKGROUND

The applicants are requesting a variance under Sec. 8.0.9(C) of Ch. 62-Comprehensive Zoning and Sec. 4.5 of Ch. 63-Shoreland Protection for the construction of a dwelling addition at a reduced setback to a property lot line. The request is for a reduced setback of 6 feet to a property line.

Sec. 8.0.9(C). In addition to the setbacks required in Section 7.0, all buildings shall have a minimum setback from all lot lines of ten (10) feet.

Sec. 4.5. The minimum setback for a structure to a lot line shall be ten feet measured from the overhang or the closest point of construction.

DISCUSSION

The application is an area variance, and the Board of Adjustment must determine if the ordinance setback requirement prevents the applicant from using the property for its intended purpose, which is residential.

VARIANCE ADDENDUM

A separate attachment may be utilized to answer these questions.

To be considered complete, a site plan and construction plans must accompany this petition.

UNNECESSARY HARDSHIP

An applicant may not claim unnecessary hardship because of conditions which are self-imposed or created by a prior owner (for example, excavating a pond on a vacant lot and then arguing there is no room for the home and requesting setback variances). Courts have also determined that economic or financial hardships do not justify granting a variance. When determining whether an unnecessary hardship exists, the property as a whole is considered, rather than just a portion of the parcel (if an applicant prefers to build by the water but can't due to the water setback, but can build on the rear of the lot without a variance, the water setback shall be denied). The property owner bears the burden of proving unnecessary hardship.

For an area variance, unnecessary hardship exists when compliance would unreasonably prevent the owner from using the property for a permitted purpose (leaving the property owner without any use that is permitted on the property), or, would render conformity with such restrictions unnecessarily burdensome. The Board of Adjustment must consider the purpose of the zoning restriction, the zoning restriction's effect on the property, and the short term, long term and cumulative effects of a variance on the neighborhood, the community and on the public interests.

The unnecessary hardship is, and, is present because:

See Separate Attachment

UNIQUE PROPERTY LIMITATION

Unique physical limitations of the property such as steep slopes or wetlands that prevent an applicant from complying with the provisions of the ordinance can be considered for a grant of variance. (However, be advised that even if unique physical limitations exist, the variance still may not be granted.) Valid unique property limitations that are not generally shared by other properties can be considered but must prevent compliance with ordinance requirements.

The circumstances of the applicant (growing family, need for a larger garage, wanting a better view, etc.) are not factors in deciding variances. Nearby ordinances violations, prior variances or lack of objections from neighbors do not provide a basis for granting a variance.

Unique features of this property which prevent compliance with the terms of the ordinance include:

See Separate Attachment

NO HARM TO PUBLIC INTERESTS

A variance may not be granted which results in harm to public interests. In applying this test, the Board of Adjustment must consider the impacts of the proposal and the cumulative impacts of similar projects on the interests of the neighbor, the entire community and the general public. These interests are listed as objectives in the purpose statement of the ordinance and include, but are not limited to:

- * Protect public, safety and welfare
- * Preserve wetlands
- * Prevent water pollution
- * Protect fish and wildlife habitat
- * Promote a safe and efficient transportation system
- * Protect property values
- * Conserve soil, water and forest resources
- * Encourage the protection of groundwater & surface water
- * Preserve natural scenic beauty & rural character

A variance will not be contrary to the public interest because:

UNNECESSARY HARDSHIP

The property presents an unnecessary hardship because it is an existing 75-foot-wide lot, while current zoning standards require a minimum width of 100 feet at the building line. In addition, the ordinance requires 10-foot setbacks from the property lines, which further reduces the practical buildable area of the lot. Because the parcel is already 25 feet narrower than the current standard, applying the required setbacks creates a constrained building envelope that limits the ability to make reasonable improvements to the existing home.

The hardship is present due to the fixed physical dimensions of the lot. The lot width cannot reasonably be increased and the existing home was constructed within the limitations of the parcel. A proposed addition within 6 feet of one property line is necessary because maintaining the full 10-foot setback would significantly restrict the size, placement, or functionality of the addition and may prevent a practical expansion of the existing home.

This hardship is not self-created, but results from the pre-existing lot width and the application of current zoning standards to a parcel that does not meet today's minimum width requirement. Granting relief from the setback requirement would allow a reasonable addition to the existing home while recognizing that the narrow lot condition is inherent to the property and beyond the owner's control. The requested relief would not create a new hardship, but would address the practical limitations caused by the existing nonconforming lot width and required setbacks.

UNIQUE PROPERTY LIMITATION

The property has unique physical limitations because it is an existing lot that is only 75 feet wide, while current zoning standards require a minimum width of 100 feet at the building line. This creates a dimensional constraint that is specific to the parcel and not easily corrected by the property owner. The lot is 25 feet narrower than the current standard, which substantially reduces the available building area compared with a conforming lot.

The required 10-foot setbacks from each side property line further reduce the usable width of the lot. On a 75-foot-wide parcel, applying the required setbacks leaves a significantly smaller buildable area than would be available on a 100-foot-wide lot. As a result, the property does not have the same flexibility for placement of improvements as a lot that meets the current zoning requirements.

Tara Sommersberger Variance Addendum Attachment

In addition, the existing home is already situated on the property within the constraints of the narrower lot. Any addition must work around the established location and layout of the current structure. Because of the lot's limited width and the placement of the existing home, strict compliance with the 10-foot setback requirement would significantly restrict or prevent a practical addition to the residence.

These conditions are unique to the property because they arise from the lot's existing size, configuration, and developed condition, rather than from a general preference for a larger addition or a self-created hardship. The requested variance is necessary to allow reasonable use and improvement of the property despite these physical limitations.

NO HARM TO PUBLIC INTERESTS

This variance would not be contrary to the public interest because it would allow a reasonable improvement to an existing home on a narrow, pre-existing lot while remaining consistent with the established pattern of development in the neighborhood. The proposed addition would be located approximately 6 feet from one property line, which is less than the current 10-foot setback requirement, but it is not out of character with nearby properties. Neighboring homes already exist with setbacks of approximately 3 feet 1 inch and 7 feet 9 inches from their respective property lines, demonstrating that reduced side-yard setbacks are part of the existing neighborhood condition.

Because similar or smaller setbacks already exist in the immediate area, granting the variance would not introduce a new or unusual condition, nor would it substantially alter the character of the neighborhood. The requested setback would remain greater than at least one nearby existing setback and comparable to another, supporting the conclusion that the addition would be compatible with surrounding development.

The variance would also serve the public interest by allowing continued residential use and reasonable improvement of the property without creating an undue impact on neighboring parcels. Provided that drainage, building code, fire separation, and other applicable requirements are met, the proposed addition would not impair public safety, overcrowd the land, or negatively affect the use and enjoyment of nearby properties. Instead, the variance would provide limited relief from a dimensional standard in a manner consistent with existing neighborhood conditions.
